"GRATEFUL"

By Margaret M. Sangster, Jr.

Early dusk in New England. Snow and a fast-fading light in the western sky. Stark, thorny bushes, and a fir tree or two outlined against the horizon. And, the very keynote of the picture, a small gray girl-figure, wrapped in a great cloak of homespun, battling with the wind.

Grateful Penrose was a Puritan child.

Her mother had come over the seas in search of a new land—her few small belongings, the bare necessities of life, in a battered wooden chest. Grateful's mother had not brought a y luxury from the old country; she had left comfort and plenty behind her gladly, in the young zeal of her faith.

"Freedom to worship God!" she had said as they caught their first glimpse (a barren outlook) of the new land. "That is worth everything!"

The father of Grateful was an earnest young man, with a high purpose and many ideals. He had scarcely noticed Grateful's mother until he saw her, her very soul in her eyes, gazing on the land.

"What a beautiful face!" he had thought. "How the sunset light touches her hair!" For Grateful's father had laid aside an artist's palette when he embraced the new religion. The Pilgrims were too sober-minded to enjoy art.

They were married during that dreadful first winter, the mother and father of Grateful. How they managed to struggle through the terrible hardships no one knew, for the woman was delicate and the man unpractical. But they won out, and when the spring came they planned a little garden patch with hardy vegetable seed brought from England. There were a few flowers in the garden—Grateful's mother never quite understood who had planted them there.

And then came autumn. And with the autumn came harvest—a harvest of gold and red and russet brown. And the settlers seeing a happier winter before them, decided to make a great feast of thanks-giving to God. And the housewives baked and roasted and brewed in preparation.

It was on the morning of the feast day that Grateful was born. They named her Grateful, because they were glad that their garden had prospered, that their grain was harvested, and because above all, they were glad to have her. "I hope that she will love beauty," said her father when he first saw her small puckered face. "I hope that she will love God!" said Grateful's mother softly. There was a note of reproof in her tone.

So was Grateful born on Thanksgiving day—born with a heritage of faith and hope and high purpose, and with a latent talent at the tips of her small fingers. Her father died in the midst of that second winter when she was still a small baby, and the mother, seeing his death as only another sacrifice, tried to smile.

"It is God's will," she said. "He could never—exactly—have been one of us." And, quite absently, she thought of the spot of color that the vagrant flowers had made as they bloomed in her garden.

Small Grateful grew fast. Children do grow fast in a land where there is little time for play, and a vague fear, always, of death at the hands of a famine ghost or a live red-skin. Grateful grew fast, and as she grew she learned to spin and cook and keep the house clean. And yet, sometimes, as she paused in her workday tasks, she was struck by the beauty all around her.

"Thou art worldly, Grateful! And gay colors are sinful!" Even as she said it she remembered the words that her husband had said as he gazed, for the first time, on his small daughter.

But it was when the mother, inviting an elder to dine with them, came home unexpectedly and found Grateful drawing pictures on the hearth with a bit of charcoal while the table lay all unset, that she really began to worry about the state of her daughter's soul. She turned to the elder and pointed frantically at the child who was so absorbed in her work.

"It is a devil in her—it is vanity!" said the mother. "It must be crushed out of her!" said the elder. "Art is for unbelievers." And so Grateful was sent to bed supperless, and prayed over. The next Sunday she was made the subject of a fiery sermon as she sat, an uncomfortable but unrepentant little sinner, on the hard bench that had been assigned to her.

But despite criticism, despite the religion of the Puritans, it was neither vanity nor the devil that had prompted Grateful to draw pictures on the hearthstone. It was the spirit of her artist father speaking to her through a gift of God.

Grateful, for a while, suffered a mild form of social ostracism. But the winter was just coming, and the Indians were muttering vague threats; so she was able, before long, to sink back into obscurity. Elders and worried matrons began to talk of provisions and blockades instead of pictures and bright colors. And so Grateful, unable to do her loved work at home, would often steal away into the woods. No one knew that she crushed wild flowers and herbs and berries into red and green and purple inks. Nobody knew that she still dreamed of pictures, and red coats, and the sunlight on the sea.

Early dusk in New England. November, and snow, and fir trees outlined starkly against the sky. And Grateful, a small girl-figure wrapped in a great gray coat, battling against the wind.

The child's heart was very heavy as she felt the keenness of that wind. She did not fear the winter for its own sake, but she knew that soon the drifting snow would make it impossible for her to go to the woods and mix colors and dab gloriously at flat stones and sunken logs. Well, she would paint one more picture—a picture to last for all the months that she would have to be spinning. She would not wash it away, as she had washed away the pictures that she made on the stones and sunken trees. She would let God's own snow and rain erase it in his own time. She would paint it on—what? Oh, how she longed, with an unformulated desire, for one of the canvases that her father had painted on!

The elders had said that Grateful was ungodly. But God answered her prayer—even though it was an unformulated prayer. Straight and proud and tall, pallid beside the dark fir trees, stood a white birch. As Grateful, coming slowly through the woods, looked at it, she could see pictures on it—the pictures that she would paint. She hurried to the place where she kept her colors hidden and hurried back. And there in the growing dusk of November, she began to fashion pictures.

Perhaps it was the dancing shadows of dusk that put such fantastic notions into the little girl's head. Perhaps it was her vivid imagination. Perhaps it was just—God. But at any rate the pictures that she drew—rude drawings though they were—showed Indians, many of them, and tall batted Pilgrims building blockades. And then she drew muskets, large ones—a whole girdle of them around the tree. "For," she thought, "the steel gray has such a pretty look against the white!" And then, remember that her birthday—Thanksgiving—was soon to come, she drew pictures of steaming cakes and a huge turkey. And a Pilgrim father carving it. And because the Pilgrim father made her think wistfully of the father she had never known, she drew a picture of the only tangible thing he had left behind him—a huge Indian pipe.

And then, because it was very dark, she signed the little masterpiece with a waveringly written "Grateful," and hid her colors away, for the last time, and went home. And I think she sobbed a bit as she trudged through the snow.

Thanksgiving preparations—and blockades—grew apace in the Pilgrim settlement. Indians had been seen, daubed with war paint, skulking along the cornfield. The younger men thrilled at the dream of battle, but the older men shook their gray heads as they bent over their muskets. They knew that they were weak, and the Indians strong, and that the day of miracles was past. And then one night a friendly savage crept in to warm himself, and told them that an attack had been planned.

"Many red men," he told them. "Come from far. They creep up—on a feast night. Arrow shoot. More arrows. Fire—burn house." He stopped. And the Pilgrims knew that the date of a massacre was set for Thanksgiving. "God," says the hymn, "moves in a mysterious way, his wonders to perform." It was God who sent the scouting party of Indians past Grateful's birch tree as they crept stealthily through the forest, and stopped, an excited group, around the marvelous trunk.

The pictures on the tree-trunk were crude pictures—the errant fancies of a child's brain. But the Indians, naturally superstitious, read meaning into them. They saw themselves creeping against mighty stockades, wounded by a myriad of pieces of wood that spit fire. They saw themselves vanquished, crawling away to die. And there, underneath, painted in scarlet and purple and green, they saw the alternative—a feast and a great pipe of peace.

Thanksgiving afternoon in New England. The late sun slanting redly across the snow. The log church—quiet outside—crowded inside with a frightened group of people, waiting—waiting. A mother with her arm about a little girl huddled up in a gray coat. And then a knock on the door.

The oldest man in the community opened the door. The sunlight blazed across the threshold as he peered out.

"What," he quavered, "in God's name?" It was the friendly Indian. In his hand he bore a pipe, strangely fashioned. Behind him stood other Indians, the war-paint washed from their bronze, expressionless faces. The friendly Indian seemed strangely eager as he extended his pipe to the oldest Pilgrim.

"Thanksgiving," said the friendly Indian, "and peace. White man and red—brothers. Feast—smoke."

Later in the evening, after the feast was over, the Pilgrims heard the story of the Great Spirit's warning. And because God and the Great Spirit are one and the same they knelt down reverently and thanked him. But the day after, when the settlement, as a body, went out to view the marvelous birch tree, they thanked a little girl. For God's message, in a wavering, childish script, was signed "Grateful."

When the United States was sending Bolsheviks back to Russia, Lenin made a most delicious remark about it: "I want America to understand that she cannot dump her anarchists on Russia." The American deportees were put to work by their Soviet "comrades," and did not like it. It is pretty hard for an American agitator, who can make $50 to $100 a night by incendiary speeches in the United States, to find upon his arrival in glorious Soviet Russia that he must work at hard labor for his board.

PENNSYLVANIA

P. S. A. D.'S 34TH MEETING—SUMMARY OF THE BUSINESS MEETING HELD ON SEPTEMBER 30 TO 4TH, 1920.

On Friday evening, September 3d, 1920, at 8:15 P. M., President Reider called the meeting to order. There were some three hundred members present.

Rev. O. J. Whildin, of Baltimore, Md., opened the meeting with prayer. The call for the meeting was read. The minutes of the last annual meeting were read and adopted on motion.

Then followed the reading of the President's annual address (copy of the address has been published in a former issue).

Reports of officers and appointment of committees occupied the remainder of the evening session. The committees appointed were as follows:

On Resolutions—J. A. McIlvaine, Jr., O. J. Whildin, F. A. Leitner, Mrs. G. T. Sanders, and Mrs. Edwin C. Ritchie.

On Enrollments—W. H. Morgan, Mrs. C. D. Parham, Mrs. Charles Partington, Washington Houston and Mrs. Daniel Paul.

On Nominations—F. C. Smielau, Daniel Irvin, H. H. Weaver, Miss Edythe Dunner and W. H. Morgan.

The pith of the Annual Report of the Board of Managers was this: Male members, 153; female, 110; a total enrollment of 263 members in good standing.

The President was authorized, by vote of the Board to assign to the Board of Trustees of the Home a certificate of five shares of the Capital Stock of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company (in the name of the Society and held by the President).

Messrs. B. Sensening, J. A. McIlvaine, Jr., and C. O. Dantzer were re-appointed trustees of the Home for a term of three years (ending June, 1923).

The total amounts of the several funds on hand April 30th, 1920, was $26,683.26.

The report of the Treasurer of the Society was as follows: Total receipts, $1,260.66; total expenses, $929.08, Balance on hand April 30th, 1920, $331.58.

The report of the Board of Trustees of the Home was as follows: "The per capita cost of maintenance is $190.60, which last year was $175.75. There are at present eighteen residents in the Home—13 women and 5 men.

The Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce has inspected the Home, its management and financial condition, and has placed it on the list of charities which it has endorsed as deserving of public support, but it recommended that a fire escape should be provided for the occupants of the third floor. The Board has taken steps to have one erected as soon as possible.

The report of Treasurer of the Home was as follows: Total receipts, $9,291.84; total expenses, $6,584.36; Cash on hand $2,707.48. Bond on hand per value $1,000.00, making the total of the Maintenance Fund of $3,707.48.

Endowment Fund—Total receipts, $904.12; Bonds and Shares par value $18,650.00. Total, $19,554.12.

Building Fund—Total receipts, $2,778.00. Total of the Funds are: Maintenance, $3,707.48; Endowment, $19,554.12; Building, 2,778.00. Total of all Funds, $26,039.60.

The Saturday (September 4th) morning session was opened with prayer by Rev. F. C. Smielau, of Sellers Grove, Pa., at 9:30 o'clock.

The Committee on Enrollment reported as follows: Life Member, 1; Renewals (since July 1st), 180; Re-admissions since July 1st, 30; New members during the meeting, 28. Total 249, and 71 members in arrears, would make in all 320 Active Members. The number of Associate members is 20, and with 9 Honorary Members would make the total membership of 349.

WHEREAS, During the past year, death has removed from the Membership of the Society, and also from the circle of friends of the Home for the Aged and Infirm Deaf, Mr. Michael D. Barnitz, of York, Pa., and Mr. John Vandergrift, Superintendent of the Home, Doylestown, Pa., Mrs. Elmer E. Scott, of Philadelphia, Pa., Miss Hilda Stein, of Pittsburgh, Mr. Elmer Sommer, of Scranton, and Mrs. Washington Houston, of Philadelphia, Pa.

Resolved, That the Society place on record its deep appreciation of their years of valuable service and helpful presence, and that it grieves with their relatives and friends in their sorrow.

Resolved, That the efforts of Dr. A. L. E. Cronter, Superintendent of the Pennsylvania Institution for the Deaf and Dumb, to collect data concerning the Industrial Status of the Deaf of the State, for the purpose of widening the scope of and introducing more modern and efficient methods into the Industrial Department of the School, have our hearty approval and our promise of active co-operation.

Resolved, That the Society, through its Board of Managers, take immediate and vigorous steps to have enacted an efficient and suitable compulsory education law, so that all deaf children of the State may be protected in their inalienable right to an education.

Then followed the usual resolutions of thanks.

The Committee on Nominations, through its Chairman, Rev. F. C. Smielau, reported that J. B. Roach and J. W. Atcheson were to succeed themselves as members of the Board of Managers for the ensuing year; Henry Bards to succeed G. M. Teegarden; and W. H. Morgan to succeed C. L. Clark; as new Managers.

Unanimously adopted.

The Board of Managers re-organized during recess, as follows: President, J. S. Reider; First Vice-President, J. W. Atcheson; Second Vice-President, J. A. Roach; Secretary, R. M. Ziegler; Treasurer, A. S. McGhee.

Then followed addresses by representatives of the various Local Branches.

The meeting adjourned sine die at noon.

Russia, the World's Menace and Hope.

BY HENRY M. HALL.

This Infant Republic is the largest in the world. It is attracting the interest and solicitation of more thoughtful Christian people, as well as of the "Reading Public," than any other nation; because of its intangible future career and destiny. Its territory is one sixth of earth's area, and about as large as the two continents of North and South America. Her population is a little less than 200 million, but yet widely scattered and largely illiterate, despite the nationality, good minds, dispositions and intellect of the people. Her past history is most remarkable, from Peter the Great to the last of the Romanoffs. Her people have been tyrannized over and kept in subservience for centuries. Now, as this new era has dawned upon her, Russia, Christendom, and all lovers of humanity and liberty, are praying for her deliverance from the degenerating principles and tyranny of Bolshevism.

To rise as a great Republic into civil and religious emancipation. The material natural, but yet undeveloped, resources of Russia are immense. Her petroleum, coal, mineral and agricultural wealth, will equal that of all the rest of the world when ultimately produced by intelligent labor. Her people are reverent, kindly, and well inclined. They, when eventually educated and emancipated, will rank high among the greatest nations of this world.

PITTSBURGH.

Since the Detroit meeting of the N. A. D. and the return of the Pittsburgh members who attended, there has been a revival of local interest in the National organization, and an earnest effort was made to reorganize the Pittsburgh local Branch, especially by those who had caught the inspiration of that great gathering. Several members of the local Branch, including Mr. Gray, Mr. Dunn, Mr. Sawhill and others, got together and projected plans for strengthening our position in the N. A. D., and to unite all interests in the project. A committee was formed and arrangements set on foot for a grand banquet on December 10th, and all organizations in the city were invited to participate. Also a mass meeting was called for October 23d, to reorganize the local Branch.

The meeting on the 23d resulted in a union of forces, and after a full discussion and explanation of the situation, the following officers of the local Branch were elected: President, Samuel Nichols; Vice-President, Fred D. Allen; and Secretary-Treasurer, F. R. Gray. There was a membership of forty or more at this meeting, and plans were laid to largely increase the number at once. The Banquet Committee, which was previously formed, includes Vincent Dunn, Chairman, F. A. Leitner, John Friend, Frank Blackhall, William Sawhill, Samuel Nichols and Henry Bards. This committee was continued under the auspices of the local Branch, and everybody will whoop the banquet in honor of Gallaudet on Friday evening, December 10th. President Hall, of Gallaudet College, R. P. McGregor, "Father of the N. A. D.," and other noted speakers, have been booked to be present and address the gathering.

Tickets for this Banquet are selling at $2 a plate, and it is reported that two hundred have already been sold, and there are plenty more on hand. They can be obtained from all members of the committee, and those out of town may obtain them by mail from Mr. Dunn, whose address is 4 Steuben Street, Crafton, Pa. It is advisable to secure tickets early.

The Pittsburgh Branch of the G. C. A. A. held a meeting October 16th, and make arrangements for future activities. They will have a chance to hold a reception for Dr. Hall, when he visits Pittsburgh in December. They will co-operate in any way to make his visit a pleasant and profitable one.

The Knights of De l'Epee held a meeting at St. Philomena Hall, 14th Street, October 17th. Mr. Dunn gave a talk concerning his visit at Detroit during the N. A. D. Convention, and as a delegate to the K. D. Convention in Milwaukee. He was followed by Mr. Zimmerman, Mr. Leitner and Miss M. Zeleh, with short talks of interest to the deaf generally. Then there were games, and cakes and coffee were served. Proceeds of the meeting were for the benefit of the K. D. convention in 1923.

Mr. Charles Myles, we learn, was held up in Holiday Park, October 11th. He was knocked down, but his assailant was frightened away before he could secure any booty. On account of his injuries, Mr. Myles was laid up for a day or two.

Miss Margaret Rees, who was injured by being run down by an auto several weeks ago, was so far recovered as to be able to attend Church services at the First Baptist, last Sunday.

Mr. J. L. Friend indulged his fondness for hunting last week, out on the farm of his old friend, Floyd Stoner in Butler Co. He bagged a few squirrels, but no birds this time. He will go again when other seasons open.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Bellows have returned to Pittsburgh, after a year's absence, and are located in Homewood, where they expect to remain permanently.

Miss Emily Redmond, now assistant supervisor of girls at Edgewood, and Mr. Dan M. Reichard, of Youngstown, Ohio, have announced their engagement, the wedding to take place along in November some time.

Mr. Charles Fritzes, returning from Akron, has secured an agreeable position at Kaufman's store in the packing department, we understand. Mr. and Mrs. Fritzes have taken up their residence with Mr. Fritzes' parents, of the North Side, who need their care.

Joy reader, F. A. Leitner was in Johnston and Greensburg, October 24th, where he held services for the large deaf communities up there.

On October 26th, 1920, the obliging stork visited the Edgewood school and left in the grateful care of Prof. and Mrs. A. C. Manning a precious bit of humanity. It was promptly named Mary Elizabeth and is doing well. The proud parents are receiving the hearty congratulations of numerous friends here and elsewhere. This is the first event of the kind that has occurred at the school in all its forty-four years of existence.

Honor Cane Goes To E. Morehouse

Edgar Morehouse of Spring street, oldest man in Williamstown, Mass., has been presented with a gold-headed cane, given by a Boston newspaper to the oldest man in each town, and to be retained during his lifetime and at his death to revert to the then oldest man.

Mr. Morehouse is 87 years of age, and although he is deaf and dumb takes an active interest in affairs of the day, being an ardent reader. He has made his home in Williamstown for about 40 years and has a large circle of friends.

Mr. Morehouse is the fourth Williamstown man to be the holder of the cane. It was first presented to Daniel Galusha, and then to John B. Wright and later to Sampson Sanders. Upon the death of Mr. Sanders the cane would have gone to Davis S. Exford, but for the fact that Mr. Exford was then suffering from a serious illness from which he later died.—North Adams Transcript, Oct. 27.

NO HUNGER STRIKE.

ORANGE, N. J., Nov. 1.—A hunger strike was commenced today by a deaf and dumb boy turned over to the police by the Associated Charities, to whom he had applied for assistance. He is Alex Colerup, sixteen, of 42 North Main street, Portland, Me.

The threatened hunger strike of Alex Colerup, a 16-year old deaf and dumb boy now in the Orange (N. J.) jail, did not come off yesterday. A tempting array of food weakened his resolution, and he ate a light luncheon and followed it with a dinner which, among other things, included three fried eggs and a quart of coffee.

Colerup was turned over to the police on Friday by the Associated Charities, when he applied for assistance. He came from Stamford, Conn., the police say, and he suffers from wanderlust. He threatened to go on hunger strike, because the police would not release him, and he wrote the Chief a letter telling him of his intention temporarily to give up eating. The boy will be held until his relatives are heard from.

All deaf-mutes are invited to attend a mass meeting, on Saturday evening, November 27th, at the College of the City of New York, 139th Street and St. Nicholas Terrace (near 137th Street Station of the Broadway Subway). The question "Do you want the next N. A. D. Convention to meet in Greater New York?" will be discussed. Other matters relating to the New York Branch of the N. A. D. will be brought forward.

FANWOOD ALUMNI ASSOCIATION.

A meeting of the Fanwood Alumni Association will be held in the Institution Chapel on the evening of Saturday, November 20th, 1920, at 8:30 o'clock. A full attendance is anticipated.

By order of the President, WILLIAM H. ROSE, Sec'y, 40 West 13th St., New York.

James J. McKeown of 24 Barry Street, who is deaf and dumb, was stopped on Dorchester Avenue, several days ago, while operating an automobile, by a police officer. He was fined $25 in court this morning for operating without a license and sentence was suspended till May 21, 1921.—Boston Globe.

GALLAUDET COLLEGE.

On the evening of October 30th, a Hallow'en Party was held in Gymnasium Hall. At eight o'clock the participants formed into a line of twos and paraded under the eyes of the costume judges. When the judges had decided upon prize winners the signal was given for dancing. After dancing came games.

The winner of each game received some reward for his or her triumph. In one corner was a counter for distributing cider. In another you could have your future revealed for the asking. Doughnuts, apples, peanuts were served as refreshments.

Before the party broke up a little playlet entitled "A Mock Wedding" was enacted by Jacob Cohen, '23, Fred Lee, '24, Gordon Kannappell, '21, and Alfred Stephens, '24. The party dispersed at about 10:30 P.M. "A pleasant time was had by all."

The following is a list of the prize winners:

- Prettiest—Miss Maxwell, '21, (Turkish girl); Mr. Rittenberg, '23, (Uhlen officer). Ugiest—Miss Markstad, P. C., (Witch); Mr. Hartin, '22, (Jester). Funniest—Miss Toner, '21, (Topsey); Mr. Orman, '23, (Pugilist). Most Original—Mr. Cohen, '23, (Astronomer); Mrs. Troup, (Baker's Cocoa). Judges—Miss Weiss, Mr. Hughes, and Mr. Roberts.

Mr. Kelly Stevens, '20, surprised his friends here with a visit to his Alma Mater on Sunday, October 31st. He is teaching in the Trenton, N. J., School.

Prof. Herbert E. Day delivered the Sunday afternoon sermon in Chapel Hall on October 31st. His talk was a strong exhortation for work as an open sesame to success in life.

Catholic University, 13 Gallaudet, 7

Only a psychological reason can account for Gallaudet's defeat by her ancient rival, Catholic University, on October 30th. One thing however is certain, that Gallaudet could have played better football than she did. The Buff and Blue machine was as strong, if not stronger than the Maroon and Black. It used a greater variety of plays. It made more effective line plunges. It exhibited a greater tenacity and more dogged determination. Catholic University had openly predicted a walk-over, but she discovered her mistake before she had time to re-consider.

In the face of her opponents' powerful onslaughts the Brookland aggression could not be sure of her victory until the very finish. The battle was staged on Garlic Field under ideal weather conditions and under the eyes of an unusually large crowd. The Brooklanders kicked-off. With the ball in their hands, it took Gallaudet less than five minutes to score a touchdown. An end run by Bouchard of 40 yards, a little line plunging, another end run by Seipp of 30 yards, and the thing was done. Benedict kicked goal, making the score 7 to 0. Somehow this seemed to be the turning point for Gallaudet. Through some unexplainable reason the team appeared to lose its grip. DeNault, left-halfback, came to the rescue of C. U. Making an end run he eluded the Gallaudet players and reached goal. C. U. missed goal kick. At end of first period the count stood 7 to 6, Gallaudet leading.

In the second period, during a Gallaudet forward pass, De Nault grabbed the ball in the air and made a successful 80-yard dash for his second touchdown. After the goal kick the numbers stood 13 to 7. Gallaudet, however, was not beaten. Time and again telling end runs by Bouchard and Seipp, gave Gallaudet the advantage. During one of these runs Bouchard had broken through the Catholic University line with the ball and had a clear field before him, when one of his own players got in his way, causing him to stumble. Added to these misfortunes were fumbles and penalties. Forward passes, which Gallaudet used liberally, did not prove as effective as was expected.

Towards the close of the final period Gallaudet again seemed about to regain her lead. A wonderful spirit animated the whole team. All its movements expressed a grim resolve to wrest victory out of apparent defeat. It was within 10 yards of the goal when a penalty forced them back 15 yards.

The first half was characterized by some spectacular playing; the second by continual attacks and repulses. Bouchard and Seipp deserve much credit. The latter scored Gallaudet's touch down with the help of Bouchard's 40-yard approach.

Lahn, who played full-back, had to be removed during the third quarter on account of a broken collar-bone.

Four new candidates for admittance to the Kappa Gamma Fraternity have been added to the last list: Mr. Earl Maczkowski, '22, Michigan; Fred Connor, '23, Pennsylvania; Fred Benedict, '24, California; Anton J. Netusel, '24, Nebraska.

FANWOOD.

On the afternoon of Election Day, the pupils had a half holiday. Official records for the basket-ball tournament have been printed and will be put into use at once.

This school formed twenty-two basket-ball teams for the tournament of the current year. Six teams are made up of senior-members of the Fanwood Athletic Association, six from the junior members, six from the Margrat Athletic Association, and six teams of girls.

The names of the senior basket-ball teams were selected by captains, and are: Cadet Captain E. Malloy, of "Eddie" Five; Cadet Captain L. Cassonelli, of "Lou" Five; Cadet First Sergeant T. Whalen, of "Tommy" Five; Cadet First Sergeant E. Mulfeldt, of "Emil" Five; Cadet Color-Sergeant M. Czech, of "Mike" Five; and Cadet R. Behrens, of "Rudo" Five.

Some cadets were invited to inspect Destroyer No. 192 by a yeoman. While there they enjoyed the navy food, as they were also invited to supper with the sailors. After the supper, one of sailors asked a cadet to push the button, which causes the destroyer's electric lights to illumine the boat. They had an excellent time.

On the 5th of November the Basket Ball Tournament began. The gymnasium was filled with excited onlookers. Major Van Tassel gave an excellent talk to the players and those present, and then he tossed the basket-ball, and the game commenced. Major Van Tassel took the place of Principal Gardner, who was unable to be present.

The contesting teams were "Lou" Quintet, under the captaincy of Cadet Capt. Louis Cassonelli, and "Eddie" Quintet, under the captaincy of Cadet Capt. Edward Malloy.

It was a thrilling game. "Lou" 14 "Eddie" 12 Donnelly L. F. Byllinski Marshall K. F. Jaffrey Cassonelli C. Malloy Jensen L. G. Nixon Liehtblan R. G. Pokron

Field goals: "Lou"—Donnelly 3, Marshall 2. Field goals—"Eddie"—Byllinski 1, Malloy 1, Jaffrey 2. Field fouls—Byllinski 3, Malloy 2.

On Friday evening, October 29th, the Girls and Boys Kindergarten Supervisors and other members of the Household Staff gave an All Hallow'en Party in the Girls' Study Hall, at which about sixty persons were present. A most enjoyable time was had by all. Principal and Mrs. Gardner and Miss Estelle Gardner were among the guests, also Professor Jones and quite a number of deaf friends of the school. About twenty of the guest masked, and it was impossible to distinguish who they were. A mock marriage was performed very realistically and was the cause of much laughter. A fine repast was served at about midnight, after which there was dancing. Everyone voted the occasion a huge success.

Miss Effie M. Beaver, formerly matron, and Mrs. Jeannette Hoover (nee Hoover), formerly in charge of the small boys' department, visited the Institution and old friends last Thursday.

Saturday evening, November 6th, an entertainment was given to the members of Fanwood Literary Association by the pupils of High Class.

At 7:30 P.M. the entertainment started with the following program:

- READING—"The Twelve Huntsmen," by Anna Hoffman. Columbus-Cincinnati Division. 27—Marion. 28—Columbus, 10:30 A.M. 29—Springfield, 2:30 P.M. 30—Cincinnati, 7:30 P.M. 31—Middletown. About the debate, Dr. Fox selected three pupils of the High Class Juniors as judges.

The judges reported that the Negative, Charles Moscovitz, outpointed the Affirmative, Alfred Ederheimer, by 7 points to 3.

The readings, sketch, dialogue, etc., were interesting to the audience. "Waste Not, Want Not," was the title of the play, which was from the required reading of the class and contained much moral instruction. The audience appeared well-pleased with its rendering.

After the entertainment, Dr. Fox gave us a brief talk about it. It seemed like old times to see Mr. Thomas Beatty, our former baker, with us again on Friday last. Mr. Beatty, for fifty years, presided over the Institution bake shop and enjoyed the enviable reputation of being the best baker around.

Mr. Edwin Langdon, a member of the Institution's Board of Directors and Chairman of the Library Committee, was very much pleased, when he called last Saturday, to note the great improvement, although not yet complete, in the School Library.

Principal Gardner, Mrs. Gardner and their daughter, Estelle, motored to New Haven Saturday last, to witness the foot-ball match between the Yale Eleven and Brown Eleven. Sunday Mrs. Gardner and Miss Estelle stopped with friends in Hartford, and on Monday, continued to Northampton, where they will stay a week. Principal Gardner returned to the Institution.

Mr. Esmond Gardner, the only son of Principal and Mrs. Gardner, and who is a Sophomore at Princeton University, witnessed the Harvard-Princeton game in Cambridge.

General Francis V. Greene, President of the Institution, called on Monday and conferred with the Principal on Institution business. The Founders' Day will be observed on the 19th of November. In the afternoon, there will be the annual competition in drilling between the three companies. The winning company will carry the Stars and Stripes for the ensuing year.

Keep this date in your mind: On Thanksgiving evening, there will be a basket-ball match between the F. A. A. quintet and the K. L. T. quintet (Knights of the Light Trinity). To see the game go to the 177th Street Subway Station (Bronx) between 6 and 7 P.M.

At morning service of Sunday, all pupils assembled in the chapel and listened to Dr. Fox's dissertation. His theme was, "Waste Not, Want Not." In the afternoon Prof. Iles discoursed upon the text "Little Things."

AKRON, OHIO.

Two notable birthday parties came off on October 23d and 23d. The surprise was planned on Mrs. Harry P. Wilson and successfully carried out. She was inveigled into Mrs. Ellerhorst's across the street, while a crowd of friends assembled in her house, and the table was loaded with 23 candles and presents. When she came back with her husband and saw the company and presents on the table she was overcome with surprise. After admiring the presents, she was requested to blow out the tiny candles, which she did one by one, and it took her a long time—about fifteen minutes. The company were served with cakes and jello in different flavors, and the layer cake made by Mrs. Prigge was pronounced delicious. The presents were a pretty bungalow apron from Mrs. F. X. Zitnik, a corset cover (band made) from Mrs. Dranginis, a crepe waist from the husband, an embroidered towel from Mrs. Ellerhorst, and a box of fancy stationery from William Boyd. The committee of arrangements was composed of Mrs. G. W. Prigge and Mrs. John H. Dranginis. An amusing incident occurred when Geo. W. Prigge was in the chair playing "Forfeits." He ordered an unknown male member and his wife to kneel down and give an exhibition of conjugal bliss by kissing each other. The laugh was on Mr. Prigge, as it turned out, for he was the victim of his own forfeit. His wife, busy in the dining room, was sent for, and Mr. Prigge tremblingly explained the situation to her, but the woman with a New England conscience snorted and told her cosmopolitan husband that he was imagining silly things and was old enough to know better. With that she flounced back to the dining room, which caused more merriment than carrying out the forfeit would have done. One game, that is the favorite one of Messrs. Dranginis and Wilson, played at all parties, made every one laugh so hard as to bring the tears to their eyes. It cannot be described without spoiling the next party. Enough to say that one man imagined he was being lifted up to the ceiling blindfolded, and jumped down only to find himself sprawling on the floor. One woman nearly tore two handfuls of hair from Mr. Wilson's scalp. Those present were: Miss Casello Gholson, Wm. Boyd, Mrs. F. X. Zitnik, and her boy Scout, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Dranginis, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Prigge, Edwin Carr, Isaac Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Lamberkin, and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Ellerhorst.

The other birthday party was given in honor of Robert M. Godwin by his devoted wife. This couple came from Arkansas, where they were well-known to the silent people. Mr. Godwin found a large company assembled when he came home. A friend, who knew him, made an address in which he mentioned a few things in Mr. Godwin's blameless life of thirty-three years. George W. Prigge followed next with a few eulogistic remarks and then invited him to inspect his presents, which included a fine stylographic pen from Mr. and Mrs. Prigge, Mr. and Mrs. Dranginis, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson and the baby; a pair of doeking gloves and a Fedora hat from Mrs. Godwin and family; an elegant clothes brush for his vanity in clothes from Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wherry, Jr.; a purse of money for his tobacco from F. X. Zitnik; and a pretty necktie from Mr. and Mrs. Jacobson. Lastly a big bundle wrapped up in newspapers from George W. Prigge et al., was unrolled by Mr. Godwin and the papers thrown aside and caught up by the fun loving ones in the party and thrown at each other, making the scene look like a Mardi Gras festival with confetti thrown about. The laugh was on Mr. Godwin, when he came to a small but useful article after all his labor. Almost all the games played were blind folded ones. Mrs. Godwin furnished most of the games with prizes. The prize winners were Zitnik for hooking rings, Mrs. Joha Jacobsen and Floyd Keathley for cutting hearts pattern, Mrs. Clarence Berry and H. P. Wilson for best peanut dressing, Mrs. George W. Prigge and Ernest H. March for drawing best pictures of "a pyrene," or fire hardened glass bowl that could stand baking in an oven, which went as a prize to Mrs. Prigge, who was delighted with the trophy of her skill. Messrs. Dranginis and Wilson played their favorite game on those who had not been made victims of their devilish ingenuity before. An enjoyable feature was mind reading given by Willie Wherry. Sandwiches and cake were served with hot cocoa. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wherry, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Prigge, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. John Dranginis, Mrs. Clarence Berry, Mrs. John Jacobsen, Walter Greene, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. March, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Keathley and F. X. Zitnik.

Mr. Godwin declared all his presents were useful things and just what he needed. Birthday parties seem to be all the rage in the silent colony at Goodyear.

Our foot-ball team went to Pittsburgh, on Sunday, to play a match game with the famous Bradley Eagles of the Smoky City. The Silents, as Wingfoot Clan, the official newspaper of Goodyear calls the deaf and dumb, played a brilliant game and went down to defeat with colors flying. The Eagles have the reputation of never having been beaten, and they defeated the Regulars of Goodyear Company last year by a score of 3 to 0, and but for two unintentional errors for which four points were given to the Eagles against the Silents, the score would have been a tie, 20 to 20. As it was, the Eagles came out four times ahead. The team was crippled by the absence of two of its best players Captain Casuden and Wickline were laid up with sprained knees from previous games, and Coach Moore had been on the disabled list. The team played its best toward the end, but could not overcome the lead gained by the Eagles in the beginning before time was up. The Silents have vowed to do their "durn best" and pluck the feathers of the Eagles in the next game. The Wingfoot Clan always refers to the members of the Silent Athletic Club as the "Silents," and it is a question whether this is not a better term than the abnoxious words "deaf and dumb," which lend themselves too easily to ideas of pity and risortuence. Not only for the sake of brevity and convenience, but also for our own self respect, we might well adopt that word.

The Goodyear Silents beat the strong football team from Cleveland in a brilliantly played game, by the score of 25 to 2 last Sunday.

The following letter, from an enthusiastic football fan of Pittsburgh, speaks for itself:—

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 11, 1920. MANAGER DEAF-MUTE FOOTBALL, Akron, Ohio. DEAR SIR:—As a spectator at the game between your club and the Bradley Eagles, I take these means of expressing my feelings for your club. I have seen many games played but never any handicapped as yours were being mated. I want to say that your end man, the one who wore the red socks, is as wonderful a man on the field as ever put a football down. It would be an honor for Pitt to have a man like this on their team. This does not mean that your other line-up is not as good. They all are as fine a set of players as any one would want to see. I hope you will win every game you get into. I will be waiting to see you come here again, as nothing but death would keep me away. Yours for success (A fan) J. H. SERRIN, 237 Bloomer Pl., Pittsburgh, Pa.

P. S.—I see by the Pittsburgh Post that the score was 24 to 20 in favor of the Eagles. This is wrong. Should it not be 20 to 20?

Mr. Tarill, of Detroit, well known salesman of the National Food Products Co., was a recent visitor here.

Some of the lumber left on the grounds of the Silent Co-operative Grocery was stolen a few hours after midnight about two weeks ago. As the lumber belonged to the contractor, Mr. Snyder, the management of the grocery did not worry.

Mrs. R. M. Goodwin was a guest at the birthday dinner of Mr. and Mrs. H. Reeder, of the Firestone Company, last Sunday. It was Mrs. Reeder's birthday.

The Firestone Company is working only six hours a day in five days a week.

Col. Pat Dolan (he is a Kentucky Colonel) came back from his trip to Pittsburgh without landing a job. He says the city is too smoky to suit his fastidious taste.

The local Frats held a successful harvest party at their rooms last Saturday evening, under the management of Chairman F. X. Zitnik of the Committee on Arrangements, ably assisted by his popular wife, who acted as cashier and "vamped" the gentlemen with her winning smile, thereby swelling the receipts of the Frats' treasury. A novel game was inaugurated by Mr. Zitnik, who offered a big chunk of pumpkin pie to the girl or woman who was the first to reach the platform from the end of the hall without spilling the apple on her head. Mrs. Williams, of Sawyerwood, won the rare and the pie. The attendance was quite large. A straw vote on the presidential candidates was taken, with 46 votes for Cox, 42 for Harding, 3 for Debs and one for Blake. Mr. Pearce, of Colorado Springs, has gone home after getting a leave of absence from Goodyear.

Another Sunday School class was started in the Baptist Church on Goodyear Heights last Sunday. Mr. Moran was the leader. There were nine silents present.

Miss Jennie Jones was the favorite partner of the gallants young or old in the mazy dances at the recent Frats' social. She was in great demand.

Leon J. Laingor, who was laid up with a bad rib from an accident for some time, returned to work in the Goodyear Monday.

A large group of silent friends and relatives surprised Alfred M. Monnin at his beautiful home on North Cherry Street, Canton, Saturday evening, in honor of his birthday. The party numbered twenty, and Mr. Monnin may be excused if he felt a little overjoyed at having such a nice gathering. Mrs. Wm. F. Durinn is to be complimented on the splendid arrangements through the evening. An enjoyable evening was spent in chatting, after which a chicken supper was served. Those present, a small number of whom were from Akron, were: Mr. and Mrs. Edward Eckerson, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Dann, Mr. and Mrs. Leon J. Laingor, and Mr. and Mrs. William F. Durian.

W. D. Ellis is home in Kenton with his family for a belated (?) vacation. So long, Mr. Ellis, we'll miss you in our home circle.

Italian polenta, German krant, Hungarian goulash, English stout, French fried potatoes (pommes de terre) Welsh-mad rabbit, Belgian hare, Holland butter, Bohemian rye, Genuine Yankee pumpkin pie.

Viennese rolls and Chinese soy, Japanese tea and Hawaiian poi, Wieners, Bologna, Russ caviare, Stilton, limburg and camembert, Havana perfectos, Turkish coffee, India relish and London toffee.

Scottish haggis and Iceland moss, Spanish omelet, Creole sauce, A Lombard plum and a Lima bean, Beef from the bullish Argentine, Bermuda onions, Arabian dates, And cobbed corn a la United States.

Melons brought by a smart Sicilian, Nuts by a courteous-tongued Brazilian Irish stew, with a bit of the blarney, Swiss chard, Mexico chilli con carne. Mix them well in the melting pot. And serve to the diners, not too hot. —Edmund Vance Cooke.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar M. Trenke issued invitations to a "house-warming" at their new home, which they occupied very recently. Some thirty-five friends responded and the evening was spent socially, telling jokes, stories, etc. This was followed by a buffet supper, including sandwiches, olives, sweet pickles, cake and coffee, of which there was plenty for all. The host and hostess were recipients of a number of useful and appropriate gifts. They have a cosy, modern little home, just built for two. Here's hoping it will keep them from moving to California, as they had intended to do some time ago.

The wedding of Miss Ethel Blanche Gallup, of Des Moines, Ia., and John H. F. Opfer, of Joy Co., Colorado, took place August 23d, at 2 P.M. Mrs. Evelyn Jung Johnson, of Fort Dodge, Ia., an old-school chum of the bride, was the bride's attendant. The bride wore a gown of white crepe meteor and tulle veil and carried a bouquet of bride's roses. The ring-bearer was the little niece of the bride, who carried the ring in the heart of a rose-bud. Mr. and Mrs. Opfer took their honeymoon through parts of Iowa, visiting with the groom's relatives and from there went to Kansas City to attend the wedding of the bride's sister, Miss Eva Tague and Carl Wear, former boys' supervisor at the Iowa School. From Kansas City they went to their ranch at Joy Co., Mrs. Opfer is a graduate for the Iowa School and the groom a former pupil of the Nebraska School. Both have the hearty congratulations of their many friends.

Miss Evelyn Pearson, of Fremont, Neb., came to Omaha recently and secured a lucrative position at a tailor shop and is doing very nicely. She is staying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mullin for the present.

Ever since the Detroit Convention of the N. A. D., considerable consternation and disgust has been displayed by a number of the deaf in this neck of the woods regarding the remarks made by Supt. Frank Booth of the Nebraska School, at the Convention of the Teachers of the Deaf at Mt. Airy, Pa., June 28th to July 3d, Supt. Booth branded our language as "weed language." He claims his true meaning was misunderstood and misinterpreted, Ye scribe was at the Detroit Convention, when the facts were made known to the 2000 deaf in session, and saw all remarks of bitterness, criticism, etc., which resulted in the passing of a resolution condemning him, to which Mr. Booth has replied to the members of the N. A. D.

MASQUERADE PARTY A masquerade party was held on Saturday night, at the home of Mrs. Rose Herman's (nee Rose Robinson) parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. Robinson, at 75 Mill Street, Newburgh, N. Y.

Games and dancing with music were indulged in by all. Supper was served at midnight, after which prizes were awarded for the best costumes worn.

Those present were: Mrs. Rose Herman, Mr. and Mrs. I. Robinson and children; Mr. and Mrs. S. Irasell and children, Newburgh, New York; Mr. and Mrs. Max Newfield, of Brooklyn, New York; Mr. and Mrs. W. McCheson, of Poughkeepsie, New York; Mr. and Mrs. J. Goldberg and children, of New York City.

Mons. Denis De Saix, a visitor to this section from Gay Paree, was at Xavier services Sunday. He joined the happy social gathering at St. Elizabeth's Home in Stuyvesant Square, in the evening. Keen of eye, and will be a decidedly French personality, Monsieur De Saix and Xaverians became great friends for the time being.

NEW YORK.

News items for this column should be sent direct to the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL, Station M, New York.

A few words of information in a letter postal card is sufficient. We will do the rest.

For several years past a beautiful custom has been observed annually at St. Ann's Church, that of setting aside the first Sunday in November, as "Memorial Sunday." Difficulties in the way of a proper observance of All Saints' Day led to the appointment of the first Sunday in November to take its place, and the observance has grown with the passing years. Old friends join the ever widening circle beyond the shining veil, leaving us the memories of days when we walked with them in close communion and fellowship; the inspiration of their lives and the example of service and sacrifice. It is good to pause for a brief while in the swift rush of the crowded days and call these friends to mind. Much that we have and are to-day, we owe to these guides, preceptors and more than friends. The years bring to us a deeper sense of their value, their friendship seems more beautiful seen through the dim perspective of time.

The church was well filled, as the time for the service began. The memorial flowers on the altar were strikingly beautiful. Great white chrysanthemums and russet oak leaves forming an arch over the altar cross, and banked about the re-table. Graceful palms added a touch of vivid green to the chancel decorations.

The service was conducted by Rev. Dr. Chamberlain assisted by Rev. Mr. Kent. Before the sermon, Miss Alice Judge led the choir in the hymn "For All the Saints who from their Labors Rest."

At the conclusion of the hymn, Rev. Mr. Kent read the list of departed friends in whose memory the flowers were placed on the altar. They were: Thomas Hopkins Gallaudet, Rev. Thomas Gallaudet, Harvey P. Peet, Isaac Lewis Peet, Edward Miner Gallaudet, Allan Fay, Anos G. Draper, Ella Dillingham Fox, Charles Wesley Van Tassel, Rowland B. Lloyd, Weston Jenkins, Timothy F. Driscoll, Caro E. G. Shaw, Enoch Henry Currier and Charles A. Stoddard. The flowers were the gifts of the Sunday School pupils of St. Ann's, St. Thomas Mission of Newark, N. J., the Brooklyn Guild, Metropolitan Chapter Gallaudet College Alumni Association, former pupils of Mr. Driscoll at the Lexington Avenue School, and various individuals. Before the sermon Dr. Chamberlain called on Dr. Thomas F. Fox, who eulogized the Gallaudets and Professors Draper and Fay; Mr. William G. Jones paid tribute to the memory of Harvey P. Peet and his son Isaac Lewis Peet, and Mr. Enoch Henry Currier and Rev. Dr. Charles A. Stoddard. Dr. Chamberlain in his sermon spoke of the value of the friendship of these men, and the rich treasure of inspiration found in their lives. He mentioned in the course of his remarks, Revs. Henry W. Syle, Job Turner, Francis J. Clerc, S. Stanley Searing, Austin W. Mann, Thomas B. Berry, Henry Van Allen and Brewster R. Allabough, all missionaries among the deaf. Other friends who had died during the year were Mrs. Eleanor Davis Sanford, Sarah J. Bayne, Emil Stipek, Adam Singer, Christiana B. Roberston, Kate Fitzgerald, and Alexander Thurston.

The celebration of the Holy Communion followed, Rev. Dr. Chamberlain being the celebrant, assisted by Rev. Mr. Kent. After the service the flowers were distributed among the sick. The whole service was beautiful and impressive. Each year sees a larger attendance and a more reverent appreciation of its intention. It is good to keep alive the memory of the pioneers and friends of the deaf, who stood by them in the days when they were few and feeble, and now that we are stronger and self-reliant, to acknowledge, in the only way we can, the debt we owe to those great souls who have won our love and reverence.

"The Count of No Account" will appear personally at St. Ann's Church Guild Room, Saturday evening, November 13th. The actors have been working faithfully and will endeavor to please the patrons that evening.

A very pretty wedding took place when Miss Bertha Haft and Mr. Harry Kurz were married, on Saturday evening, October 30th, by the Rev. Dr. B. A. Elzas, at the home of the bride.

They certainly made a very handsome pair and a sweeter bride would be hard to find. The bride was dressed in a simple but lovely white satin dress, which was made by the nimble fingers of her chum, Mary Hornstein. The marriage ceremony was simple but impressive, as Dr. Elzas' ceremonies always are.

A beautiful supper was served after the ceremony, from grape-fruit to ices. Fully a hundred people were present.

The couple left for a week's honeymoon, for Asbury Park, Atlantic City, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington.

Among those present were: Katie Kriesworth, Mildred Schram, Rose Loebl, Mary Hornstein, Anna Sweyd, Mr. and Mrs. L. Fischer, Mr. and Mrs. I. Lovitch, Philip Bassel, Joseph Abramowitz and Leo Breslauer.

H. A. D. NOTES

Mr. Max M. Lubin spoke on "The Spirit of the New" last Friday evening, November 5th. This Friday, the 12th, Dr. Thos. F. Fox will be the lecturer. Subject: "Skipping the Essentials." Everybody welcome.

A Business meeting of the association will be held on Sunday afternoon, December 14th, open to members only.

In the evening of same day, December 14th, the first Motion Picture show of the season will come off. Several films from the famous Players, Pictorial News, a five-reel play "Sacred Silence," etc., will be among the features. Don't miss this. It will be a real treat.

The Committee in charge of the "Grand Bazaar" to be held here on December 1st, 2d, 4th, and 5th, is busily engaged these days. All who come will find this affair a real revelation. Please remember he dates.

On Election Day, a fishing party, composed of Bronx deaf-mutes, sailed on Thomas Hamilton's famous boat, "Edna H," of Melrose Yacht Club, and stopped near Great Neck and Port Washington for several hours' pleasant fishing. Henry Sunderhoff had five hooks on his rod and caught ten Tom Cods and one Ling about 6 1/2 pounds, which won him five dollars for the heaviest fish caught. Kid Curley caught four Tom Cods; Patrick Murphy, 4 mackerel, and six flounders. Frank Hayden, (veteran,) caught an eel, a bottle and eight flounders; William Hansen, seven flounders and three Tom Cods; John Shea caught three mackerel and 4 flounders; Herman Hanneman won fifty cents for the smallest fish caught, and Thomas Hamilton caught two crabs at the same time and three mackerel.

Everybody enjoyed it, but had a rough sail despite strong wind weather on the way home. Captain Hamilton piloted his boat safely without trouble. He is well known on the sound for many years. His assistant, Harry Sunderhoff is a good hustler in every way.

The Hallow Eve Party at St. Ann's Church Guild Room, on Saturday evening, October 30th, was well attended, yet not too crowded for comfort.

There was little of the eerie and mysterious, but plenty of joyful games with prizes for the winners.

A contingent of Fanwood boys and girls contested eagerly and many of them carried off prizes.

A big box of candy, which was "chanced" for, was won by J. M. Axillone, of Jersey City.

The games played were: Ducking for apples, biting the swinging pippin, and flour cakes.

The races were: Apple race, thread the needle, apple race blindfolded, and chair race.

Miss Anna M. Klaus had charge of the refreshments, and all were served with cake and coffee. The proceeds of the affair go to the Thanksgiving and Christmas fund.

The committee in charge was headed by Mr. Victor Anderson, assisted by Misses Radlein, Ruhl and Klaus, and Messrs. Louis Radlein and Charles Olsen.

Sylvester J. Fogarty has taken the chairmanship of a committee of the De l'Épee Society, Brooklyn Branch of the Xavier Allied Organization. The committee from now until the fourth Sunday of November are planning to hustle to make a success of the annual De l'Épee Celebration. The affair has the endorsement of the society's Rev. Director, Father Dalton, S. J. Prominent speakers are to be invited to eulogize the great benefactor of all the deaf, and after meeting the little expense entailed, the proceeds therefrom will be turned over to Chairman Frankenheim, of the N. A. D. monument committee.

On Election Day the Hanks Big Five defeated the Deaf-Mute team of the Lexington Avenue School, at the latter's gymnasium, by a score of 24 to 23. The Hanks team were formerly pupils of the Lexington Avenue School, and are composed of the following players: H. Berkowitz and Otto Jelinek, forwards; W. Becker, centre; Joe Briggs and Morris Kruger, guards. The substitutes are Louis Sussman and Louis A. Mayer.

The Entertainment Committee of the Deaf-Mutes' Union League desires to announce that owing to the limited number of tables, on November 24th, those who arrive first will be able to take part in the game of Hearts, which will be for valuable prizes; all others are welcome, even if they can not play in the games, and all will be provided with refreshments.

On Sunday, October 24th, Mrs. B. Koukel managed a surprise party upon her husband, on his birthday. A fine supper was served, including salads, sandwiches, oake and ice cream. Besides several relatives, those present were: Mr. and Mrs. B. Elkin, Messrs. Mitchell, Beck, and Charles Muller, Misses Hitz, Ehrlich, Malclaire, and others.

Mr. Harry Gloisten had a house built for him and his family at Larehmont Gardens, N. Y. The house will be ready for occupancy in December. Mr. Gloisten has been a skilled engraver in the employ of the American Bank Note Co. for many years. May good luck and prosperity always follow him in the future as in the past.

Harry Webb (a deaf mute), twenty years old, came near being sent to Blackwell's Island as a vagrant. He was found shivering in a doorway, having slept in the park for three nights. He was saved from prison by his parents, who hurried to Police headquarters and got him released.

John Cleary and his father came to New York from Newport, R. I., last week to see the former's uncle, who is in Bellevue Hospital, suffering with a broken leg. They left for Newport on Monday night, Mr. Cleary is a member of Providence Div. No. 43, N. F. S. D.

Jack Seltzer, Paul Skidelsky and Leon Winog, were guests at the birthday and Hallowe'en Party of the latter's sister, Violet, at their home in the Bronx. An assemblage of about fifty persons were present, all intimate friends of the hostess. The main feature of the evening was dancing.

Mrs. Addie Mary Doenges announces the marriage of her daughter, Gertrude Adeline, to Mr. William Blair Mellis, on Saturday, the thirtieth of October, 1930, at St. Ann's Church, New York City.

Congressman Henry M. Goldfogle, a brother of Alexander Goldfogle, was re-elected last Thursday, after a vigorous fight against his Socialist opponent.

OMAHA.

THE PERFECT AUTOIST

"For speeding he was never arrested; He broke no rules in streets congested; No issuing nor bursting tires. His spirit ever filled with ire.

"On rainy days he never skidded; Pedestrians cursed him not nor kidded This chap—what legions like him are— The fellow never owned a car."

The October entertainment committee of the Omaha Division No. 32, gave a Hallowe'en party, Saturday night, October 30, at the Swedish auditorium. Over 50 were present: The early arrivals started playing tag till time was called to go fishing. There was a large pond nine feet deep and about a dozen fish lines. Everyone had good bait, and caught all kinds of vegetables and fruit, from celery and cranberries to a pumpkin—and the pumpkins were nice big fellows too. James R. Jelinek fished an apparently empty sack, for which he paid $1.00, and on opening it he found a dollar bill, so it was 50-50. Dancing was popular during the rest of the evening. Coffee and cakes were sold.

O. H. Blanchard took a flying trip (not by airship) to Griswold, Ia. Saturday, October 30th, and remained till Monday afternoon, visiting relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Long entertained at an "At Home" to about 40 of their friends Tuesday evening, November 2d. As it was election night, supporters of both candidates were given a chance to discuss the political situation, which proved rather exciting. A mock wedding was pulled off by the following: Minister, Robert W. Mullin; Bride, Miss Nellie Johnson; Groom, O. H. Blanchard; Bride's father, Leo. R. Holway; Bride's mother, Mrs. Ota C. Blankenship; Bride's maid, Miss Mabel I. Pearson; Best man, John M. O'Brien; Page, Jas. R. Jelinek and Ring bearer, Bennie Delejoy. The wedding party went upstairs and helped themselves to all kinds of weird-looking garments in the attic, from a bath robe to old lace curtains and bright colored goods. The bride's bouquet was a framed picture of American Beauty roses, which she snatched from the wall. Carrots, sweet potatoes and parsley, were used for decorations. After this a mind-reading test was given by Mrs. Ota Blankenship and H. G. Long. All guests were given slips of paper, on which they were instructed to write a sentence. Then Mr. Long asked Mrs. Blankenship to place each slip across his forehead and behind, and every sentence was read without an error and astonished the guests, till finally the trick was discovered. Refreshments, consisting of sandwiches, fruit salad, doughnuts, fancy cakes and coffee, were served. Most of the crowd on leaving, went down town to hear late returns of the election. Some of the guests remembered that it was the tenth wedding anniversary of the host and hostess, and left a number of useful gifts of tin and aluminum to brighten up their kitchen.

Mrs. F. C. Holloway, of Council Bluffs, Ia., left October 14th for Clinton, Ia., to visit with her daughter, Mrs. Charles B. Ceiger, and children. On her way she stopped at Cedar Rapids, Ia., where she met more than forty of the deaf at a farewell reception tendered Mr. and Mrs. Sproul, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Mardock. Mrs. Holloway has since returned home.

November 6, 1920.—The Ladies' Aid Society gave an entertainment Friday evening in the chapel of the school. A large placard at the foot of the stage announced the name "In Grandmother's Time," and such it proved to be, except in one respect, for Messrs. Mutt and Jeff were unknown in our grandmother's existence. When the curtain arose a trio of lassies came forth dressed in hoop fashion in vogue in the early sixties, and went through a dance. Next came some stunts from Mutt and Jeff, and then a show of Mrs. Jarley's Wax Works in charge of Miss Edgar, and the Janitor, Mr. Beckert, and "One of the finest," Mr. Ohlemacher. The different characters were a Washerwoman, Mrs. Callison; Carpet Beater, Glenn Dunn; Looking Backward, Miss Sayre; Football Player, Clarence Hill; Dancing Pierre, Miss Bliss; Wrestler, Mr. Dillinger; Mutt, Calvin Fisher; Jeff, Mr. Dickey. Mrs. Jarley made much ado about her Gallery, and called in "One of the finest," to help her get a Janitor. He secured one, and after instructions from the proprietress. She left, and he began dusting and oiling up the figures, and no sooner had he completed the job, two visitors entered, Miss Zell and Miss Toskey. They were shown the wondrous workings of the figures, and expressed amazement at the performances. The Janitor getting a few innocent knocks, kicks and punches much to the terror of the visitors but delight from the audience. And he had a time when he dismissed the figures, and Madam Jarley was all upset as she came in when the last figure was leaving the place to find her show deserted.

Mutt and Jeff gave some more stunts, and then the kewpie dolls, Oleta Stokes and Ruth Heming gave a pretty dance, accompanied on the piano by Miss Johnson, which ended the performance. It delighted every one present, and the house was full. The receipts were $46.35 from ten and fifteen cents admissions, which go to the Home for the Aged and Infirm Deaf.

The play was under the management of Mrs. Zell, Miss Zell, Mrs. Neutzing and Miss Toskey.

Crowded indeed, was the Girls' Recreation Hall, Saturday evening, with visitors attending, the Masquerade Social given under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society.

The hall was festooned with Jack o'lanterns suspended from the ceiling and string of saffron, colored paper ornamented with figures, commemorating the event. And the various booths for the sale of articles, and amusements, were treated the same way. The supper booth took up the most space, and the price of the eats was reasonable. What was better, they were all home cooked, being furnished and prepared by friends free gratis—chicken with biscuits, baked beans, lima beans, mashed potatoes, slaw pickles, coffee, bread, and butter, apple and pumpkin pie. The candy and ice-cream had separate booths and each did a good business. The fish pond and fortune telling booths were kept busy most of the evening.

Shortly after seven o'clock, the maskers of fifty or more marched into the room and paraded around for a while, in order to allow the judges to pick the prize-winners. There were some pretty ones and some hideous. Fairies, Red riding hoods and Indians, as is usual, were not wanting. Florence Kinney, as the prettiest, and Viola Riddlebaugh, as the most original, the prizes from among the girls. Miss Riddlebaugh represented Autumn, being decked in autumn leaves of the various colors. Miss Kinney represented "Columbia."

Of the boys was judged the handsome, representing a Chinaman, and Harry Carrol, as Webster's Dictionary, the most original. The winners each was given $1.50.

Near the close cakes and boxes of candy were auctioned off by Mr. Showalter. There was active bidding and all articles brought good prices.

There were many out-of-town visitors, thus showing the Ohio deaf take active interest in aid of the Home, and as long as this spirit is kept up the charity will not suffer.

Among those we caught on the fly were: Mr. and Mrs. Rufus, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stokes, Misses Margaret Cherry, Stella Huffman, Estel Berry, Howard Liggett, B. Elvert and Fred Uthoff, all of Springfield; Mr. and Mrs. Grant Miller, and Alma Byrket, of Tippecanoe City; Wm. Baker and Leslie Thompson, of Dayton; Esther Jackson, St. Mary's; Wm. Fetters, West Milton; Calvin Stottler, Cleveland. From Akron came Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Shawl, James Thrain, David Williams, John Roller, Jay Brown and wife, Fred and Russell Moore, Clifford Dille, Howard Weber, Arthur Ward, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Steel, Arthur Classon, Charles Ewing, Eric Ornbreg, Harley Stottler, John Fitzgerald, Louis Seinensohn. Mr. and Mrs. Chapman brought brought down from the Home Mrs. Alice Pratt, Clifford Rose, and George Kinkel.

Everybody seemed to enjoy the occasion, and the members of the Society feel flattered at the success of the affair, for they reaped about $300, and after paying expenses they will realize over $200 for the Home.

The Akron Silent foot ball team reached Columbus Friday afternoon accompanied by quite a number of rooters from the Rubber City. The team was scheduled to play the Jungle Imps, a crack team which had never been beaten.

Saturday afternoon on the School's Grounds, O. S. S. D. team and the Ohio Alumni, made up of deaf visitors, mostly from Akron, played a game which resulted 14 to 14. Of the Silents' game Sunday with the Jungle Imps, the below tells the story:

Jungle Imps, champions of Columbus, lost to the Akron Mutes at the Driving Park yesterday, by the score of 27 to 6.

It was the first defeat for the Imps in 23 starts. Although they lost, they are the first Columbus team to score on the Rubber City outfit.

Besides their defeat, Imps lost their star player, Mose Solomon, who fractured his left leg below the knee, when tackled in the second quarter after making a brilliant 45-yard run on a received punt. His friends took him to Mercy Hospital where an X-ray was taken. He will be out for the season.

The classiest play of the game resulted from a forward pass, Hoffman to Goff, who ran 85 yards for a touchdown. Goff raced down the field and reached his goal with time to spare. Hahn failed at a try at goal. It was the first and last score for the Imps.

Mutes had a better team and were in better condition to stand the bumps. The Imps last night were a badly battered eleven. Only for several minutes in the first quarter did the Imps show equality. The Imps' line fought hard but could not shove off the tough Mutes, who tore through almost at will.

Seinensohn, Mute fullback, was one of the greatest ground gainers on the Akron team. He scored the first touchdown in the first quarter by clipping the right end of the Imp line. He also scored another marker for his teammates later.

The whole Akron team worked like a machine, although all the best players were not called to the front.

There were 3000 fans at the park.

Lewis Fischer, one of the pupils, collected $250 for the men's cottage during vacation, and his father, who was here last week, handed it in to Superintendent Jones. During the Masquerade Social, Earl Crossen emasked and wearing a placard, "I am blind," went among the crowd, and collected $6.84 for the Society. Another pupil, Mary Jones, taking the character of a "Flower Girl" carried a large tray full of chrysanthemums and roses and carnations. After the parade, she disposed of them to the amount of six dollars, and handed the money over to the building fund. The total amount collected by the pupils, is $3,048.68. There is still more to come.

Mr. James A. Haslam, since the reunion, has been spending his time down in Highland county and near, visiting friends of his boyhood days. He stopped over here Saturday to attend the social, and left Sunday for his home in North Amherst.

Mrs. Clara B. Leib finally decided that Columbus would be more genial to her liking, and so came back last week. Since the death of her mother recently, she has been visiting with two of her children. She will occupy part of her own house on Ohio Avenue.

Treasurer Charles reports the total of the Cottage Fund to date collected, $27,052.64, from which is to be deducted $312.50 for architect's fees, and $31.55 for expenses of the drive, leaving the actual amount $26,708.59.

Miss Cora Uhl, assistant to the Girls' C. Matron, is again on duty, having returned from the hospital, where she was operated upon for diseased tonsils.

At the teachers meeting, Monday afternoon, Superintendent Cookson, of the Franklin County Public Schools, gave a talk on Spirit in Education. He read from memory a number of poems, which he had learned after he had reached the age of self-study.

The older boys of the school were given the privilege of going to High Street Tuesday evening, and read the election news, as thrown on canvas by the Dispatch and Journal. Needless to say they took advantage of it, despite the fact that the weather elements were unfavorable.

DETROIT.

As a means of raising funds for the benefit of the local N. F. S. D., the members secured Dr. Robert Patterson, of Columbus, Ohio, a veteran teacher of the State School for the Deaf, to give a lecture on "Altruism," at the hall of the D. A. D., Saturday evening, October 23d.

The writer was not present at the Patterson lecture, as she joined her daughter and a party of friends nuthunting in Milford, Mich.

The lecture proved to be quite interesting and instructive, and those who attended were loud in their praise of the meeting and financial success. The hall was crowded and it was a pleasant affair. In honor of the occasion the Ohioans were seated in the front rows, and there were more ladies than gentlemen—the former looked charming in fluffly ruffles, all colors of the rainbow.

It was a landslide of welcome. After the close of his lecture he recited "America," at which the audience arose and joined him in singing. It was beautiful and worth seeing. Dr. Patterson has a wonderful faculty for understanding the audience, and this doctor is truly an orator.

The committee of which Clyde E. Barnett was general chairman had worked hard to make this event a success. Dr. Patterson left for home in Columbus the following Sunday at 2:30, and the D. A. D. headquarters had only a pile of chairs.

The Committee reported that Dr. Patterson would give us another lecture this coming spring.

The D. A. D. are still hunting for better headquarters. They had a special meeting Sunday evening, October 24th, and were deciding a Club House located on the west side farther out, about twenty minutes' ride from the city. The Committee consists of Ben Beaver, Chairman, Kenney, Jones, Whitehead, Cornish, Schneider, Huegel, and Mesdames Tenney, Whitehead, Colby, chosen by the president to make investigation of the place and to consider a five years' lease, etc.

If satisfactory, will be referred to the Executive Board. It would be interesting to some folks to have their basement provided with special bin for waste paper. A deaf housewife realizes $3.19 a month or more on her sal vaged paper.

The cold weather is approaching. The deaf at the D. A. D., Monday night, October 25th, at dusk spied a flock of wild geese flying low and the muskrats at the St. Clair flats are building their winter home.

There were many Hallowe'en parties among the deaf the past week. It seems as if we just must have a Hallowe'en party. When we go round among the shops and see all the pretty things made for that occasion, we just can't resist them.

The following is from the Detroit Free Press of October 23d:

"While their victim held their hats, Edward Palmateer, 27 years old, and Archie S. Burgess, 18 years old, deaf-mutes, pleaded guilty with both hands before judges Keidan Friday afternoon, to holding up and robbing Max Albert, another deaf-mute.

"Through Miss Grace D. Davis, of the Public Library, who acted as interpreter, the two men told Judge Keidan how they had obtained the gun to rob Albert, and how Palmateer held the gun to the victim's chest while Burgess took $85, a watch and some keys, from his pocket. Albert, when called upon to explain his part in the matter, laid the three hats he was holding on the judge's bench and vehemently told how Palmateer had made him elevate his hands. Occasionally he drew Palmateer to him and placed his arms in the air while Palmateer went through the motions of pointing the gun, and motioning to the victim.

"Judge Keidan took their pleas of guilt under advisement and referred both of them to Dr. William J. Hickson, Chicago, psychiatrist, who is in Detroit inaugurating a psychopathic clinic.

"A psychopathic clinic will soon be established in Detroit, and the New Municipal Court is seeking to mend the broken lives, cleaning up the city, and giving severe sentences to law-breakers who threaten life in their lawlessness."

There are more deaf widows than widowers in Detroit. The widows have had their problems. They have never been out of their own homes to work. Their husbands having died, they were forced to go out into the business world to earn their living and support their children. Some of them were not so successful, as their minds have been trained along home lines. What would they do? The business world is a new earth to them. There is, it seems, nothing left for them but to marry again.

Several homes of the deaf have their shade trees bathed. They received their annual fall spraying and clipping of dead twigs. Emil Johnson, George Triene, Nilsila, Carson, Cybace and Albert Saxon have been in Speers, Saskatchewan, Canada, threshing wheat for two months. The weather was cold and it snowed in Speers. The population is about two hundred and the town is small, but the deaf enjoyed the field exercises all right. Albert Saxon returned home to Detroit, and the other deaf went to Seattle, Washington, for the winter.

Windsor deaf celebrated Thanksgiving Day on October 17th. The holiday is set each year by an order in Council of the Dominion government. It is always about the middle of October.

Mrs. Viola Stegner went to attend the 14th annual reunion of the Indiana School for the Deaf, October 1st to 3d. She staid with her cousins and old schoolmates for ten days. Then her cousins took her up to Sheridan, Ind., by auto, the following Sunday, where she spent a few days with her old chum. She expects to go to Chicago to pay a visit with Mrs. Froeman for a week before returning home to Detroit. She will accompany her aged mother to Detroit from Chicago Heights, where her old mother has been all alone since her father and brother died last summer.

Mrs. Simpson, of Windsor, Ont., was a guest of her sister Mrs. Leon French in Detroit, at the residence of Mrs. Tenney, Saturday and Sunday, and left for home Monday, October 15th.

For the benefit of the Club House Drive, the Detroit Association of the Deaf will give their first annual reception and ball at Concordia Hall, Temple Bldg., 8th floor, at 21 Monroe Avenue, Saturday evening, November 27th. Admission, fifty cents. Come, everyone of you, and have a good time.

The writer is informed that a little deaf girl, eight years old, Mara Marangon, was refused admission to this country as a physical defective. Her parents came to New York from Gary, Ind., to take her home, but were informed that as she could not speak she would be deported to Greece. Her parents returned to Gary, Ind, but will make another attempt to get the girl into the United States.

A card party is to be held at the cosy home of the Whiteheads, Thursday evening, October 27th.

An Appeal.

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE N. A. D. AND THE DEAF IN GENERAL.

At the Detroit Convention a motion was brought up and unanimously carried that a Committee be appointed to collect funds for the Deaf-Mute Institution in Lemberg and the deaf of Galicia, Poland, which has appealed to the deaf of our prosperous country for aid in ameliorating the pathetic living conditions caused by the world war and still prevailing there at its height. The need of help to aid suffering humanity has never been so great as it now is in this country, and I most emphatically urge that every public spirited deaf American respond to this call.

Contributions may be sent to the Chairman, who will forward same to the Joint Distribution Committee, and acknowledgments made through the columns of the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL from time to time.

EMPLOYMENT COMMITTEE FOR THE WELFARE OF GERMAN DEAF-MUTES.

BERLIN, September 1, 1920.

To American Deaf-Mutes:—Because of the duration of the war and its after effects, the deaf-mutes in this country are in great distress. Many deaf-mutes are out of work and it will be a long while before times become better. Winter is now coming on and the suffering among the deaf-mutes will be very great. So we are writing to American deaf-mutes with the urgent request to collect funds for the suffering deaf-mutes here. The low rate of exchange of the mark will make it possible for us to obtain 50 marks for each dollar. In this way, we hope to mitigate the suffering among the deaf-mutes who are out of work.

Our periodical the Allgemeine Deutsch Taubstumme has also suffered under present conditions. We shall also be grateful if collections are made for the paper. Hoping our request for help to American deaf-mutes will be received favorably, we remain,

With fraternal greetings,
WILHELM GOTTWEISS,
Chairman.

In response to an appeal for aid made by Mr. Watzulik, of Altenberg, Saxony, to succor the needy deaf made destitute by the war, the undersigned is soliciting contributions. Any amount, large or small, will be thankfully received and publicly acknowledged by the undersigned in the DEAF-MUTES' JOURNAL. The following have sent in their contributions.

DO YOU KNOW?

that the Oldest Life Insurance Company in America (New England Mutual) with assets of nearly one hundred millions, offers the best and most liberal policy contract to deaf-mutes, without any extra cost whatsoever?

Free medical examination. Premium rates (payable semi-annually or quarterly if desired) reduced each year by increasing cash dividends.

You owe it to yourself and your loved ones to investigate and act at once.

Full information and list of policy holders on request. Please give date of birth.
